

Maths- recognising equivalent fractions

Today we focus on equivalent fractions, looking at how to identify them using fraction walls as well as applying a method.

There are slides to give examples and a video to support the method.

English

To recognise and use fronted adverbials.

Today we are going to look at examples of fronted adverbials, discuss what they are for, and write some sentences using them.

Miss Hardy will be teaching this live on Teams at the following times:

5H 9.00am

5M 10.00am

5L 11.00am

Year 5 Home learning

14/1/21

Reading

Today you will be drawing a map of the island of Eronsay from Alien Isle.

You will need to go back to the chapter to find out what the author write about locations, such as the cottage or the harbour.

Foundation

How do people express their faith through the arts?

Today you are going to read some information about religion and it's link to art.

You are going to create a drawing based on emotions.

You can do this in your home learning book or on a plain piece of paper if you have some.