

As Thursday 7th January 2020

As she walked across the shining road, smiling she was feeling very nervous and happy because she was going to be the first woman to break the sound barrier. It was morning and the woman was sitting inside her aircraft and the mechanics were stepping her in. She put her helmet on and the aircraft ^{was} ~~went~~ over her head. While she was sat in the cockpit the engines were running. As the plane began to move she could feel vibration and noise. The aircraft took off and then they were through the clouds and it was sunny because the sun was reflecting on the silver paint. As she saw landmarks in the distance only she knew she was about to break the sound barrier and then the plane, the controls, went crazy as the sky began to get dark. She was covered in black. And then she was hurt speaking through the clouds back on the runway and she landed. She took off her helmet and the mechanics were reflected. She stopped on the tarmac to come down to see the mechanics it was years later will she remember what happened again.

Tudor 1500 years. I recall

What I know
King Henry the 8th had eight wives because he wanted sons so he chopped most of his 8 wives heads off because ~~though~~ ^{he wanted} ~~that~~ ^{the} ~~daughters~~ ^{daughters} sons and most of them had daughters. The Tudor period between 1485 and 1603. This was when the Tudor were the ruling family of England. The first Tudor monarch was King Henry the VII who claimed the throne when his forces defeated Richard III at the battle of Bosworth Field in 1485. Henry the VIII ruled the throne from 1509-1547 and had three children that sat on the throne: Elizabeth I, Mary I, and Edward VI.

What I want to know

It was

Who was the first King to rule the tudors before King Henry the VIII?
How many Kings and queens was there in tudor times?
What were King Henry the 8th's wives called?
What Year was King Henry VIII born?

How do I find out

- Books
- Research
- Internet
- Research in library
- TV documentaries

Jaquesne Avrial

I am

Dear Jaqueline Avrial,

I am writing to you because I want to ask questions about your achievements and your life. How did you feel about being the fastest women pilot in the world.

Why did you not give up when you injured your self with 20 operations to rebuild your face, and why did you want to do helicopter lessons. How did you feel when you broke your speed record in december 21, 1952.

What was your favourite plane to fly thru all your years of flying. In 1952 how did you feel when you were one of France's top ten pilot.

You inspire me to never give up through my stages of my life. Why did you want to become a pilot. How did you feel when you achieved so many records.

How did you feel when you had to go thru 20 operations. Why did you want to marry Paul Avrial in a small mountain chapel during World war II.

I hope you get my letter and reply back to me as soon as possible and I hope I never give up like you did when you got injured.

Yours sincerely,
