

Isla describes her happy place as the football pitch. This week her team played in the cup final. Whilst they unfortunately lost, this provided an opportunity to truly understand what being part of a team is all about...celebrating the good times but also supporting each other through the tough times. And also making sure you find the positives of every moment even if it wasn't quite how you wanted it to be and allowing yourself to learn from it (they did amazingly to even make a final and celebrated coming second in the best possible way...popping a bottle of pretend champagne and spraying it everywhere)! I've included a couple of pics below. Isla has also been very kind to her brother by giving him a rare football card for his collection that he really wanted.
